

偶 感

藤 田 正 夫

The table consists of approximately 20 rows. Each row is represented by a thick black horizontal bar, indicating that the original text has been completely redacted. The bars are separated by thin white lines, which are the original table grid lines. The overall structure is that of a standard data table with multiple columns and rows.